Commissioner Tanner has retained all pensioners who have been drawing two dollars a month at four dollars per month. This with out the solicitation of the pensioners.

No steps have yet been taken to push our immigration interest. What shall we do? Shall Bollinger county bring up the rear? Shall it not be represented, at all? 'Tis high time to be up and doing.

The proposed plan of the present Administration to enact such measures as will permit it to send armed men into the South to take charge of polls in 1892, will meet with a revolution of sentiment that will act as a disastrous flank movement. The South has not been in a more prosperous condition since the war, and the prospects continue to grow brighter. There can be no more necessity for sending armed forces of Federal soldiers to Southern states to take charge of the polls, than in Illinois or Missouri. There is only one purpose, if done intelligently.

Just previous to the June payment of pension allowances the pension agents throughout the country were making loud complaint of the lack of funds with which to pay the pensions. As the September payment approaches a louder howl is heard from the agents. Numbers of pension agents have been flocking into Washington pleading for relief. The supposition for clerks is almost exhausted and they have been discharged by the wholesale. Those remaining have been forced to work for starvation wages. When the December payment arrives a still louder wail will go up from the eighteen agencies of the country. There is no relief. There can be none until Congress convenes and makes an appropriation to meet these pension payments. Meanwhile Tanner and Bussey go right along squandering the people's money without regard to the exigencies of the future. The latest shameless escapade of Tanner and Bussey's administration is the decision of the latter that a dishonorable discharge acts as no bar to a pension applicant. By his decision 12,000 cowardly bums will be turned loose upon the people to feast where only brave soldiers should be fed. "A dishonorable discharge covers every form of vicious conduct—larceny, fighting, cowardice, drunkenness, burning, immorality, and, in fact, every offence that is not punished by life imprisonment or death. A dishonorable discharge means disgrace. It means that the man who is entitled to such consideration is not fit to mingle with respectable men. The Grand Army of the Republic, whatever evil may be said of it, never admits to its ranks any but honorably discharged soldiers. That it will protest against this decision is more than likely. The decision opens the way for all the 'bummers' for men who never had the semblance of soldiers, men who lagged and struggled at every battle and who will resort to any form of perjury to secure a pension. No self-respecting soldier wants the bounty jumper, the deserter and the coward to secure from the government they dishonored instead of supporting, granted a pension. This decision is the most outrageous transaction that has ever occurred in the granting of pensions. A more vicious act has not characterized the Republican administration. There is no limit to what may be done. With 12,000 dishonorably discharged soldiers—that is to say—19,000 thieves, deserters, cowards and perjurers whom the army of the Union would not tolerate, turned loose upon the treasury, the surplus will soon pass away, and the brave, deserving soldiers and their widows and orphans will be left in the struggle until these rapacious rascals have been looked after.

Whatever may have been the faults of the Democratic administration, no act of it was so tooth as vicious and rapacious as this decision. The Democratic administration passed upon this same point and Mr. Hawkins decided that a dishonorable discharge acted as a bar to a pension. Well and truly may Mr. Tanner, in his tactical and financial frenzy, exclaim, "If my arms and legs hold out, God help the surplus." This leads to the involuntary exclamation, If the Republican administration continues as it has begun, God save the country!

The Brown-Sequard Elixir is engaging the attention of doctors from one end of the globe to the other. Experiments are being made all over the land. The success of these experiments have been varying. Some have proved beneficial and some hurtful. But the preponderance of evidence seems to be in favor of the Elixir. Time, alone, will solve the problem. There is no limit to science, and we know not what the future may reveal.

The Elixir was given a trial in Farmington last week by Drs. Kenner and Bliss. The "Times" says: "The much talked-of Brown-Sequard 'elixir of life' was tried on Seward Burke and Joseph Phillips of this place, both of whom have been afflicted with chronic rheumatism for many years. Drs. Kenner and Bliss procured the necessary glands from which to secure the fluid from a healthy two or three months old lamb. The glands were taken from the animal before life was extinct. One of the glands was prepared according to the prescribed formula, and after the outer coverings were taken off was about the size of a common walnut. It was placed in a porcelain mortar which, together with the pestle, had been thoroughly cleansed and washed with a solution of bichloride of mercury of one grain to the ounce. It was then washed into a semi-fluid state, and to this was added a half ounce of distilled water which had been sterilized by boiling. The liquid was then filtered through absolute cotton from which the horse acid had been extracted and then refiltered through common filtering paper into bottles that had been washed with the bichloride solution. The solution was also run through the hypodermic syringe before and after using.

Dr. Bliss examined the lungs and liver of the lamb while Dr. Kenner was preparing the fluid. The time consumed was not more than twenty minutes from the time the lamb was killed till the injections were made. One drachm was injected into the arm of Mr. Phillips and about one-half of three drachms of a drachm into Mr. Burke. Shortly after the injection Mr. Phillips said he did not feel any peculiar sensations, but the next morning declared that he had enjoyed a better night's sleep than he had experienced for years, and was feeling unusually good and free of pain. If a little would do so much for him, more would make a corresponding improvement, so he injected another injection to be made Friday morning. The effect, however, was the reverse of what he anticipated. It threw him into a high fever and made him quite sick. It was some hours before this feeling wore off, but he is now feeling better.

Mr. Burke was not so favorably affected as Mr. Phillips was by the first injection. His face flushed, he had a severe headache and a feeling of a creeping chill like something crawling over his skin. He finally fell asleep about 12 o'clock, and his wife, who was averse to his experimenting with the new remedy, was very anxious as to whether he would ever wake up again. However, he awoke at the usual hour but was not much refreshed by his sleep. He had a nauseating sensation at the stomach, as if he would like to throw up, but when he went to walk he found that his legs were more supple, there was little or no pain in his legs and shoulders, and he walked across the room without the support of his canes, something he had not done before for years. During the day the unpleasant sensation wore away and he was continually surprising himself and showing his friends what he could do. About ten o'clock he lifted his left foot up to the height of his right knee, then catching hold of his pants pulled up his foot and rested it on the knee. It was the first time he had had his foot in that position for fifteen years or more. He also discovered that he could bend his knees and stoop over until his hands would reach within about a foot of the floor and then straighten up again without pain, a thing he hadn't attempted for years. Monday morning he said he still felt stronger in his legs, and thinks he will try the experiment again, but not until the beneficial effects of his first dose has worn off, and then he doesn't intend to have any heroic doses injected into his system.

Saturday evening Drs. Parkhurst and Bliss tried the new remedy on S. S. Boyce and Samuel Peltz. Mr. Peltz has been badly paralyzed on the left side for several years and his vocal organs are so affected that he can scarcely speak. That night he slept better than he had for a long time, but there is no perceptible change in his condition. Mr. Boyce has been paralyzed in his lower limbs for a number of years and unable to walk. Shortly after the fluid was injected he experienced a warm glow through his legs and feet, and we understand that he was able to move them a little, while heretofore he had to use his hands in lifting his feet to change their position. He finished in the case of Messrs. Boyce and Peltz was obtained from the glands of a young calf, and was administered within an hour and a half after the calf was killed.

On The Round.
Editor Press: I have returned from the Blackwell Association which was held at Duck Creek Baptist church two miles southeast of Potosi, Stoddard Co. This was the 64th annual meeting of this venerable Christian body. It was very well represented with distinguished laymen and ministers from home and abroad. Of the laymen we mention the venerable Judge Owens. Several eminent ministers from Kentucky and St. Louis were on hand to take part discussing the various topics of interest. Your correspondent was appointed committee on Christian Education, which gave us the happy privilege of introducing our grand Mayfield-Smith Academy, now to open in September its sixth session under the splendid management of Miss J. R. Parke as principal, with pre-eminent qualifications for that responsible position. The hospitality of the people of Potosi and Duck Creek communities was abundant, good dinners being served each day on the ground. The Methodist people opened the doors of their church and asked for the committee on religious exercises to send them a preacher to fill their stand. This scribble was sent for one. We preached to a good congregation. The people have had splendid health. There is considerable sickness at this time, it being now the sickly season. The productions of this county are abundant. Stock trade and other business is beginning to look up. I will visit the St. Francis and Charleston Associations which are the next two bodies of this kind to meet in Southeast Missouri. No more now. H. F. Toso.

LUTESVILLE LOCALS.
Mrs. Caruthers is moving back to Ind., to her people.

F. Von Stein moved Monday to the Caruthers property.

Mr. Francis of Hall county, Mo., is upon a visit to relatives.

If you tramp on our toes we will halloo and don't forget it. J. Gordon went to St. Louis last week with a car load of cattle.

Mr. Turner of Allenville was up Sunday and spent several days here.

F. Peters moved Tuesday to the farm of Adam Perkins near Glen Allen.

H. H. Poe of Bloomfield was up on a visit to his brother J. M. Poe a few days ago.

Mrs. R. Hatcher returned Monday from a month's visit to relatives in Cape county.

Quite a number of our citizens attended the quarterly meeting at Glen Allen last Sunday.

Billy James came up from Brownwood last week. He said he had enough of that place.

Francis Seabaugh of Oak Ridge has moved to the widow Estes' farm eight miles north of this place.

F. Von Stein has moved his watch shop to the Caruthers' building, where he will be found in the future.

De J. Q. Ramsey returned last Saturday from a week's visit to Cape county and will remain here sometime.

Twenty-five converts were baptized into the Free Will Baptist Church last Sunday near Friendship Church on Grassy Creek.

George W. Baker lost one of his lively horses Monday. While being driven from Bollinger Mills the horse fell and died. It was supposed to have been injured internally.

Edward Winn who married Miss Mattie Turner of Marble Hill a couple of three years ago is now traveling for a wholesale clothing house. He was in Lutesville this week.

Quite a little excitement was created in our town Sunday evening. Little Emma Wilson, daughter of W. T. Wilson, was swinging, and while doing so a horse which was grazing near by ran under the swing. The child fell upon the animal's back and was carried a few yards before falling off. She was stunned only, but worse was feared and a doctor summoned. No serious hurt was done, however.

There was a failure upon the part of the scribe who "wrote up" Lutesville to mention the fact that our town has a good schoolhouse with two main rooms, in each of which public school is kept from four to six months each year; also side rooms for the girls and boys in which to place their hats and dinner buckets. We have, also, two good and commodious churchhouses. One, that of the M. E. Church, South. The other, that of the Congregational M. E. Church. There are services held in each of these churches at regularly appointed intervals and a good attendance is the rule.

MARBLE HILL.

sary evidence in the prosecution of the claim.

William Jones has a boot and shoe shop in Henry Elfrank's harness-shop and does repairing and making with neatness and dispatch.

Messdames Jamison and Bollinger and Messrs. Lessley and Teeters each keep nice boarding houses where the hungry can be fed that which is good and at very low rates. In connection with his boarding-house Mr. Lessley also keeps a feed stable and has a very fair run of custom. As he raises his own feed, his charges are not extortionate.

Your scribe next wended his way to the courthouse. The Collector (James Seabaugh), Circuit Clerk (Wm. Morgan), Probate Judge (Jasper Frymire), County Clerk (P. J. Wells), Sheriff (John Huskey) and Prosecuting Attorney (W. K. Chandler) all have their offices in the courthouses. They are unquestionably as sociable as accommodating as any county in the state can boast of. They attend well and strictly to their respective duties and their offices are models of neatness and convenience. They, all of them, knowing well their duties, impartially and promptly discharge them, as do all our other county officers.

In the northeast lower room of the courthouse is the law-office of attorneys C. P. and J. W. Caldwell. These young gentlemen have only been in the practice of law a short time, but during that time have come into a good practice. Being close and attentive students, it is only a question of time until they will enjoy that practice which they so justly merit.

George Elihu Conrad has a law office in the lower southeast room of the courthouse and has a good library of which he makes good use. He has a substantial practice which he in no wise abuses. Mr. Conrad was elected Prosecuting Attorney of this county five years ago, notwithstanding that he is a Republican and the county a Democratic one. He has a good farm between this town and Lutesville, and gives some attention to his farm and stock thereon.

R. W. Fisher has a good saw, grist and woodcutter mill on Hurricane Creek just east of town. This mill is fitted up with the latest machinery for making flour by the roller process. Mr. Fisher does not run his mill all the while, but is prepared to do good work with it.

The public school building of this place is a two and a half story one, with ample room for three teachers.

The M.-S. Academy is situated upon a high promontory near town and commands a picturesque view of Marble Hill, Lutesville and considerable adjoining territory. This institution is well advertised throughout Southeast Missouri, and within its walls students from several adjacent counties have received instructions.

The Presbyterian, Baptist and Christian denominations each have church buildings in which regular services are held. The Masons and Grangers have a large and commodious hall building two stories high, the upper story of which is nicely fitted up for lodge purposes, the above orders and the Odd Fellows holding lodge therein.

This completes the list in Marble Hill with the exception of the old reliable Marble Hill Press which is one of the fixtures of the town, and which enjoys a large and healthy circulation. Subscription price $1 a year. Send in your name and get the news.

What "Bab" thinks about marriage: Marriage, ever as a failure, is more to be desired than single blessedness as a success. It is always a negative success—the being single. Its woes, its worries, its troubles, its griefs are intensified because they are borne alone; and I can tell you there is a great deal of truth in a remark made by a young matron, that she had rather have Jack drunk to cry out her woes, than have to take them out on a maid with a hairbrush. Jack, drunk, may not be a thing of beauty or of grace, but he's your own. Jack, cross, may be hard to persuade into amiability, but when you're cross he undertakes the same task. Jack, happy, makes sunshine for you, and nine times out of ten, Jack being drunk, Jack being cross, or Jack being happy, depends on you. You see, I am a little bit inclined to take the man's side. I know so many women.

I am a violent opponent of anti-fund of novels and absolute coarseness—have a liking for soda water and an earnest affection for babies, and am an ardent advocate of marriage, good, bad or indifferent. And I think the making of it, good, bad or indifferent, is largely in the hand that wears the wedding ring.—Republic.
